WHEN HUMANS GOT SO SMART

The individuals of the first meme are happy that they finally have a framework that is user friendly. This relates to human-centered cybersecurity because it makes it easier for them to understand. The individual in the second meme is happy that he isn't putting himself and his company in danger by interacting with dangerous or sketchy emails. This relates because human-centered cybersecurity really emphasizes that humans are the first line of defense and a human firewall is essential to defending against cyber attacks. The individual in the third meme is stressed because of the newly trained employees being smarter to avoid their attacks. This also relates to the human firewall making it tougher on hackers and cybercriminals.
