

Sydney Johnson -- Executive Producer

Sydney is a San Diego native. She graduated from San Diego State University, 1998, with a BA in Theatre Performance. Then she moved on to receive an MFA in Theatre from UCLA in 2000, during her study she began an internship with The Colony Theatre Company in 1999 and was elevated to Company Manager in 2000. During her time at TCTC, she discovered that she loved the administrative world of the theatre more than performing. In 2002 she was offered the Production Manager position for the Sacred Fools Theatre Company and stayed until 2005 when she moved to Long Beach to be the Company Manager at the Long Beach Theatre Company. She stayed with the LBTC and was made the Artistic Director (2006-2010). The Old Globe offered her the position of a lifetime as the Executive Director and she loved it. But finally, in 2013, her good friend Laura Bjork invited her to Hampton Roads, Virginia to be the Executive Producer of the Fractured Legs Stage Company. Sydney couldn't be more excited to be celebrating her fifth year with FLSC and living in Norfolk with her wife and two cats.
