

My name is Amy Ferris and I am a senior at Old Dominion University. I am an Asian Studies major and study Japanese for my minor. I enjoy learning new things, and plan to become a tour guide in Japan.

Since my childhood I have travelled around Europe and America, and my interest for learning about new cultures and places continues to grow as an adult. With new skills in language and research from my college experience, I plan to keep learning and developing my skills after I graduate. I hope that my hard work in school and in life will inspire those around me to chase their own goals and succeed as well.
