Journal 5 Evaluation

This semester has been a great experience, I have had a few struggles this course as opposed to the previous English class. I liked the rhetorical analysis because I am familiar to writing stuff like that. My struggles this semester was nothing but pure procrastination. The assignments were not as difficult, but me setting the aside until they built up was my downfall. My successful assignments were the journals and rhetorical analysis. I liked doing the annotated bibliography and the outline because it made my research paper so much easier. The assignment that I did not really like nor do well on was the visual analysis. I did not do as well as I hoped on it. Overall, this course was wonderful and I learned a lot from this class.
