

Talk Abroad Reflection

I think that my interview went well. I think that the talk abroad site is very helpful when prompting us to sign up for the conversation. I liked the conversation. I think it went smooth and it teaches us to actually hear what the other person is asking us.

I think actually hearing and responding in Spanish is really helpful when actually learning the language. I think speaking with a native Spanish speaker that speaks very little English will make us have no choice but to really hear what they are saying for a good response.

I recommend it for students because most of us do not speak with native Spanish speakers, so when we do, it helps us speak and listen. I recommend writing down in advanced what to say and study for it so when they go to do the conversation they are prepared.
