Journal Entry 8

I believe any sort of media has a tremendous influence not only humans but cybersecurity. The media can falsify a lot of information in order to prove a certain narrative. I think the media has mislead several understandings about cybersecurity like exaggerating cyber threats or how unrealistic threats occur. However, I do also believe that media can provide a positive message like spreading awareness to viewers about how important it is to take security protocols. It's very important for us to not rely on media especially fiction storytelling about issues that revolve around cybersecurity. Cybersecurity can be very complex and media has a way of downplaying it so it's crucial for individuals watching are educated about these fiction tales.
