

This week has been the hardest. Surprisingly I finished the module in less than an hour. I was super busy and barely had time to look at it. The module was easy but I'm not sure how well I will do on the test. I haven't been as invested in any of my classes. This semester has not been good and thankfully my grades do not reflect that. I'm trying my hardest to keep going but I may take off until Spring '2020.