

Journal Entry #11

Alexander Turnsek

3/27/2024

In Module 10, we are taught that specific cybersecurity jobs require social skills and interactions. As the video mentions, cybersecurity is the first line of human defense against malicious individuals. The video also mentions the different places and ways you can work as a cybersecurity analyst. This would mean that cooperation is needed as one person cannot stand and resolve those incidents alone, so communication skills and teamwork are necessary for cybersecurity. The video also mentions that problem-solving skills are a necessity as technology evolves; cybersecurity professionals must be ready to adapt and learn to keep up with these changes.