

Think about how the description of the cybersecurity analyst job relates to social behaviors. Write a paragraph describing social themes that arise in the presentation.

This video discusses a few different social themes in terms of both the person who may be interested in becoming a cybersecurity analyst and the types of people cybersecurity analysts work with. As explained in the video, the job of cybersecurity analyst would be best suited to someone who is both eager to learn and flexible. Flexibility is helpful for the possibly irregular hours and location, and a willingness to learn will help them stay up to date on current practices which will further their ability to provide support. Another part of being a cybersecurity analyst may require helping either customers or possibly other employees with technical help and providing cybersecurity awareness training.
