Reflection #2

What constitutes good rehearsing technique? There are a variety of components that combine to make successful rehearsal practices. For example, you must always be on time for rehearsals and maintain good, consistent attendance throughout the whole rehearsal period. This is necessary so that the maximum amount of rehearsal may be completed, resulting in a final performance that is as fluent and consistent as feasible. Our group's rehearsal went smoothly, we made a few changes to show the students an example of business attire. As high school students prepare to graduate they will be pushed into the workforce and they must know certain attire is needed for certain events. Some of my group members had trouble putting together business attire but this is why dress rehearsals are perfect because it gives us a chance to critique each other and show ways we can improve to make a better presentation.

I'm excited to show our knowledge of what we have learned throughout this service learning project to the community and the high school students we will be teaching. I feel as if showing them how to dress in a professional setting plus teaching them or giving them a better understanding of COVID-19 will help tremendously. Our world as we know it has changed drastically since this disease has rampaged through our world.
