

Venture Idea 1

1. Overview and Need:

- Provide a concise description of the business idea.
- Clearly state the problem or need that this idea addresses. What gap in the market does it fill?

2. Evaluation of Potential:

- Assess the potential of the idea in terms of market demand, scalability, and profitability.
- Consider potential challenges and risks with the idea.

3. Discovery Process:

- Explain how you discovered this opportunity. Was it through market research, brainstorming, personal experiences, industry trends?

Venture Idea 2

1. Overview and Need:

- Provide a concise description of the business idea.
- Clearly state the problem or need that this idea addresses. What gap in the market does it fill?

2. Evaluation of Potential:

- Assess the potential of the idea in terms of market demand, scalability, and profitability.
- Consider potential challenges and risks with the idea.

3. Discovery Process:

- Explain how you discovered this opportunity. Was it through market research, brainstorming, personal experiences, industry trends?

Venture Idea 3

1. Overview and Need:

- Provide a concise description of the business idea.
- Clearly state the problem or need that this idea addresses. What gap in the market does it fill?

2. Evaluation of Potential:

- Assess the potential of the idea in terms of market demand, scalability, and profitability.
- Consider potential challenges and risks with the idea.

3. Discovery Process:

- Explain how you discovered this opportunity. Was it through market research, brainstorming, personal experiences, industry trends?

Comparative Analysis

1. Analysis:

- Provide a summary analysis comparing the three ideas.
- Consider factors such as market size, competition, your skills and resources, and potential return on investment.

2. Idea with the Most Potential:

- Clearly state which idea you believe has the most potential and why. This could be based on market research, personal interest, or other relevant factors.

Remember to support your evaluations and decisions with relevant data, research, and logical reasoning. This will strengthen your overall analysis and make your assessment more compelling.