Professional development to bridge graduate school and career success

How to Conduct a Successful Job Search (and Mistakes to Avoid)

This virtual workshop introduces graduate students to the stages of the job search and helps them identify how to move through a career transition with purpose and strategy.

In this workshop by Beyond the Professoriate, you will learn:

- The different needs of academic vs non-academic hiring committees and managers, and how these differences require differing job search strategies.
- How to identify the different stages of the career transition and corresponding goals.
- How to evaluate your readiness for a professional job search.
- How to develop SMART goals to guide your career exploration and job search process.

Workshop participants receive a workbook to help you apply what you've learned to your own job search.
