After watching this video, I can say that media influences our understanding about cybersecurity in both positve and neagtive ways. A positive that media's influence on cybersecurity is that it helps to show more people that cybersecurity is important. For example, in the movie, "The Fate of the Furious" that is shown in the video, it shows that with the advancement of technology like self-driving cars, cyber criminals can hack into cars and other devices and take them over. This also shows people that they need to be careful about who and where they get their technology from as well as how they use the technology. With the positives however, there are also negatives that come along with the media's influence. One example would be that media only shows that cybercriminals will target people with wealth, which is not true as they can and will target anyone they want.
