Social cybersecurity is very important to national security. Social cyber security caucuses on the individual and how they are affected. Information Warfare is a primary form of conflict and it is important to understand how that affects people. It can be used as a good strategy against threats to the US government. Russian propaganda is a good example of what can happen to United States citizens. Russia wants to weaken the United States population as much as it can. Media warfare is a good way to do it. In the United States we need to make sure we are safe.
