Reflection Paper 3

In the last 50 hours of this internship, my abilities have been put to the test. I have gone from making flyers to go out every week, to needing to edit full length videos that to advertise camps that were going on at the iLab. Throughout these last 50 hours I believe that my video editing skills have improved greatly, and my speed at completing the tasks I was given has increased greatly. I believe that having this internship has given me the opportunity to improve on many of my skills that I have maybe lost or become rusty with from what I learned when I was in high school. One of my favorite things that I have done for this internship was with the video I had to create for the robotics camp that was being done at the Lab. The challenge of making it was figuring out what content needed to be cut, since if I did not cut anything, the video would have been over 5 minutes long, which for viewer retention, would have been unacceptable. But once I found that some of the content in the videos would be redundant to leave in, I was able to find what parts of the clips to cut, and to create a short and concise video that could be posted to our social media, such as TikTok and Instagram Reels. I have thoroughly enjoyed this internship and it is a bit bittersweet to leave it.
