My Reflective Process (answer prompts 1-5 below in English to help you process your French learning this week):

- Why did I select this artifact? What is the significance for me?
I selected this artifact because we were talking about La Poutine in class last week and I decided that I really wanted to try one. So, I did some research and found a few local restaurants that have La Poutine!
- What did I learn from this artifact?
That a lot of places sell La Poutine or local variations of it. A Bite of Maine, for example, has a cheese and lobster version, and another one I saw has a Korean BBQ version.
- How does the artifact reflect my strengths and interests? What have I done well? Name 1-3 items related to this artifact that you are proud of this week.
This artifact reflects my researching strength as well as my dedication to trying new things. I can't wait to try La Poutine!
- What was my biggest challenge when completing this artifact? Would I have done anything differently?
Finding the restaurants was the hardest part, because if I just googled, "Places near me with La Poutine," restaurants would come up, but when I looked at their menus I didn't see any.

5. What can I improve on moving forward in my French learning process?

Maybe try other French foods, to understand the French cultures culinary aspects.
