

Gunnar Asper
CYSE 201
1/31/2025

Journal 3

PrivacyRights.org provides an invaluable service with the information which they provide. Through their website, you can access information about data breaches, reports, even chronology and databases of data breaches themselves, as well as law overviews. This information is so valuable because of what we as cybersecurity professionals can do with it. This collection of information allows researchers to analyze and better understand why, when, who and how data breaches happen. With this analysis, cybersecurity professionals can better harden and secure data systems and technology, which in turn will minimize any potential threats in the future.