Journal Entry: Week 1

After reviewing the NICE Workforce Framework, I have found myself drawn to a few categories specifically. Mainly, the Oversight and Governance, Implementation and Operation, and the Protection and Defense categories are what specifically caught my eye. Oversight and Governance interests me because managing the COMSEC of a large enterprise company seems like an interesting job which can teach me a lot more than just management. As for Implementation and Operation, I find that this specific category draws me in the most because the implementation and operation of technology/security systems seems like a career that wouldn't get boring, and wouldn't be going away anytime soon. Finally, Protection and Defense interests me because the idea of protecting data and networks as well as investigating cyber crimes is quite exciting to think about for me.
