

1. A CNN host recently said he'd rather give his kids Jack Daniels and weed than Instagram. What do you think about this statement?

A little out of proportion, as Instagram can be a scary place for anyone as someone can hide beyond a screen. I personally would allow my kids to be on Instagram as I would just guide them not get attached to what's beyond cyberspace. It shouldn't get to the point of marijuana and a kid drinking underage. That just takes it to a whole different level of comparison.

2. Why do you think victims don't report cyber victimization?

Cyber victimization can be caused by mental or physical distress as people feel embarrassed about what happened to their appearance or their thoughts of mind. If someone becomes a victim they think they will be judged for what happened to them as a result they wouldn't want to tell anyone.
