To whom this may concern:

I write to you concerning Ms. Imari Matthews of Williamsburg, Virginia. I have known Imari for a little over 11 years, however, have come to be more involved in her life within the last 6 years as her pastor and most recently, her employer. Imari has a quiet strength about her; she comes from a humble upbringing, and has used the challenges in her life to propel her and motivate her towards success. Both in the face of difficulties and opportunities, she faces them head on with a goal of bettering herself in mind.

Imari has been very active in the Salvation Army; both as her church home as well as the avenue in which she provides service to the community. During numerous times, Imari has displayed her awareness of the community around her and her desire to administer change and relief to those lost in the clutches of poverty. She has participated in community engagement events, mass feeding programs for housing insecure individuals, headed cleaning and organizing task forces, Christmas relief efforts for poverty-stricken families, and is always available for spur of the moment volunteer opportunities.

I wholeheartedly recommend her for the endeavors she has before her. She is committed to changing the world she lives in. We are blessed by her and because of her. Please accept our recommendation.

May He bless you abundantly,

Captain Michael Good
