Question: Review what the author says and write a paragraph describing the five most serious violations and why you think those offenses are serious.

Answer:

When looking at what are the top 5 most serious things, that internet users do that could be illegal, from Andriy Slynchuck list. The first one that stands out, the most as being illegal is, number 10, which is collecting information about children. The reason this is a big issue, is that it gives law enforcement agencies, a feeling that you would like to indulge in crimes such as cp and trafficking of children. Furthermore, it ends up creating a history on the suspect, which law agencies tend to investigate later on. The second most serious thing to do on the internet, is number 11 from the list which is illegal searches, the reason this is a big issue, is that it can be taken into consideration as a violation of rights, which law enforcement agencies, do not trust the suspect and want him apprehended. The third most serious violation, is bullying and trolling, the reason this is such a big issue, is that it can cause individual that are being bullied online to take there lives, which would all corollate back to the attacker, which will face legal action. The fourth most serious violation is faking your identity online. The reason this is such a big issue is that undermines trust, safety, and security in the digital realm of internet. This can also tend, to cause legal issues and fines if someone was greatly impacted, by the fake identity. The fifth most serious violation, is number 4 on the list, which is sharing passwords, addresses or photo of others. The reason this is a huge violation, is that it invades a person privacy, which is protected by the constitution, which cause serious legal trouble.
