Homework Section 2 – Reflection

The homework in section two proved to be very useful in the performance of the second exam. This was due to the direct correlation to the exam problem and how they were used to solve the problems. What would have been even more beneficial for me would have been performing even more of the homework problems. Unfortunately, due to my own personal lifetime constraints I can perform what I can get done and try my best to wrap my head around the topic. This is constantly chastised as being lazy or in performance of the bare minimum, yet the full picture of the person required to do the work is not known. Positive reinforcement of the topics being studied would be the most beneficial as it would show the good and bad that is being performed.
