

Just shared every possible piece of personal information about myself to the internet!
#HAPPYMONDAY

This meme raises awareness to a very real problem within our modern-day society. Millions of people voluntarily share very personal information to the internet daily. This creates a great risk to become a victim of identity theft and social engineering attacks.

Everything looks safe... time to disable a firewall!

This meme highlights how human error can easily lead to misconfigurations, increasing the risk of security breaches.

This meme was intended to raise awareness to phishing scams, where attackers rely on ignorance and opportunity.