

Journal Entry 8

The media exaggerates things about cybersecurity which could confuse many people who don't understand/ know what cybersecurity is. For example, in a movie doing a scene that has to do with hacking, they could do the incorrect procedures you're supposed to do in the real world.

This would make people believe that that's how you're supposed to conduct that procedure in the real world. So it messes with our understanding of cybersecurity.