

Week 12 – Journal 14

Here are some of the most serious violations that people could commit without even knowing. First, is recording a voice over internet protocol calls because the person recording is doing it in secret without any consent. Second, is faking your identity by using someone else's. When a person is using another identity for crime it can cause problems for the other person if the unknowing criminal is doing something that could hurt the person's reputation. Third, is using another person's network. When you are using something that a person has paid for without their permission that is a form of stealing. Fourth, is collecting information about people under the age of 13. Doing so without permission from the child's parent or guardian is going against the Children's Online Protection Act. Finally, the fifth unknown violation a person could face are illegal searches on the internet. Searching for something like for example "how to make a bomb," can be tracked by authorities which could lead to jail time. It is important for people to educate themselves about these issues so that they themselves can avoid jail time as well as respect the other party.
