What the AI has to do with cybersecurity is the AI can spot threats and possible malicious activities so basically the AI can serve as another protector. The AI can also handle lots of data which means it can also detect any threats masked as normal activity. Next the AI learns more and more overtime. It also has to do with cybersecurity by running pattern recognitions to ensure safety to whoever is using that specific device. Overall, the AI impacts cybersecurity way more than people think.