

When you get a notification that your package is almost here

When tiktok gets banned but instagram reels not hitting either

When there is 10 nba games and you and your friend researching parlays

It is important to be careful when clicking links in both text messages and emails. Hackers spoof themselves as legit companies and can attempt to trick you into giving them information or installing a backdoor on your device. They use common sale techniques like fear of missing out or trying to rush the victim into making a choice

VPNs are used to protect the identity of the user, but they also can be used to circumvent network security controls such as websites being blocked. It is expected that remote workers use VPNs for security but their use while in office should be monitored.

Shoulder surfing is something that can seem harmless but you never know when people can be insiders. They may be able to see information not meant for them and use it later to damage the company.