

John Gresham

11/29/2022

Professor Wright

Biology 302

End of Term Reflection

In this semester I learned a lot regarding the field of immunology. This field is very interesting to me, as I hope to do something regarding forensic science. While this career is not directly related to the immune system, having knowledge of the processes and components of the immune system can be very helpful. The knowledge gained regarding some of these components, like cytokines and proteins, are helpful to get a fuller picture of what is happening inside the body. Overall, I have enjoyed learning about the immune system and its mechanisms and will bring this information forward with me, wherever I go.