

Me when I get my password right on the first try instead of failing it 5 times in a row and having to change my password

Explanation: How a strong password can be even hard for the person who already may know the password.

When I get an email from someone saying “Stephanie, you have 16 outstanding charges that need to be paid off” so I go and pay it off on the linked site paypa1.com (My name isnt even Stephanie)

Explanation: A common spam message recently was one as described above, but it would use the same name for every message sent out and take users to a clearly fake website.

How I feel after updating my computer drivers

Explanation of connection to course: it is important to keep your computer and its components up to date in order to establish a stronger defense.
