

Presentation Writing

I made a Flyer for the Information Professionals club. It was for undergrad students who wanted to be Librarians. Not a lot of people joined but I was pretty good. Looking back I probably should have done more advertising. Also I can see how the name could sound a little bland. We did not have many activities since we were just starting.