Week 1 - Journal Entry 1

NICE Workforce Framework for Cybersecurity gives an overview of several cybersecurity roles, including security operations, incident response, and risk analysis. I find it interesting to work in threat detection and response domains, as such roles align well with my problem-solving skills and I wish to work on real-time security issues falling under the Protect and Defend category. On the other hand, Securely Provision captures my curiosity since it places a strong emphasis on security in both system architecture and design.

On the other hand, areas such as Governance, Risk, and Compliance would be less interesting to me. While important, the bureaucratic and policy-driven aspects of these roles do not align as well with my interests in hands-on technical work and immediate impact.
