

One thing I learned from this course was Collagen III. This came about during my research for the Scientific Literacy essay. I enjoy learning about the ways it can be used to combat the growth of tumors. It became relevant again to me during my Genetic final, and a question came up about suggesting ways to treat cancer; I thought of the studies using Collagen III overall though I enjoyed the class and greatly appreciated how the tiny things in our body make such a significant impact.