I think it's amazing that healthcare is accessible to pretty much everyone in Spain. A huge difference in American healthcare and healthcare in Spain is payment. In America, some people can't receive healthcare because they cannot afford it and I think that's horrible. Spain is also pro abortion which is different in the United States as many states are making them illegal. Some people even travel to Spain for cosmetic surgeries like nose jobs because they are cheaper there than in the United States. I would definitely try medical tourism in Spain or another country.
