

SYDNEY MARCOTTE

Since I was in sixth grade, I have wanted to be a nurse. I am a compassionate, energetic, hard-working, caring person that just wants to help people in life. I believe this profession is the perfect fit for me, and I have taken steps, such as becoming a Certified Nursing Assistant, to truly dive into this type of work and further my understanding of what to expect in this field of work. I truly enjoy what I do and strive to further my education in this line of work.

EXPERIENCE

ACTIVITIES

I love helping people and being a reason for people to smile. I have always been a person to safely talk about feelings and conflicts to both my family and friends, without any sort of judgement. I am extremely open-minded and always strive to be the best I can in whatever I do. I have been the captain for numerous travel soccer teams, helped tutor other students in math and Spanish, and currently work at a retirement home as a certified nursing assistant to help elderly people with daily tasks. I believe that anywhere someone goes, there are going to be challenges and hardships, but the main thing that matters is how they better themselves to improve their experience and quality of life.
