Talk Abroad

Talkabroad was a really good way for me to practice my Spanish due to the fact that I do not practice the language outside of Spanish class. My partner's name was Ana, from Ecuador. We talked about what things we do such as school and our hobbies. I said that I really like to travel as well as cook. She said that she really likes playing an instrument that resembles a flute. I can not remember the name of it but it was considered a traditional instrument from Ecuador. She also loved to play the drums from her band in school. In conclusion, Ana was a really good partner since she was genuinely interested, asked a lot of questions and made me feel welcomed. I would use talkabroad again.
