

This person is researching the best personnel training for all employees.

This dog is working hard to ensure that the environmental safety is ample enough for the employees of his company!

This employee is content with the manpower of the company he works for!

This CEO is thinking about which occupational health services to provide for his employees!

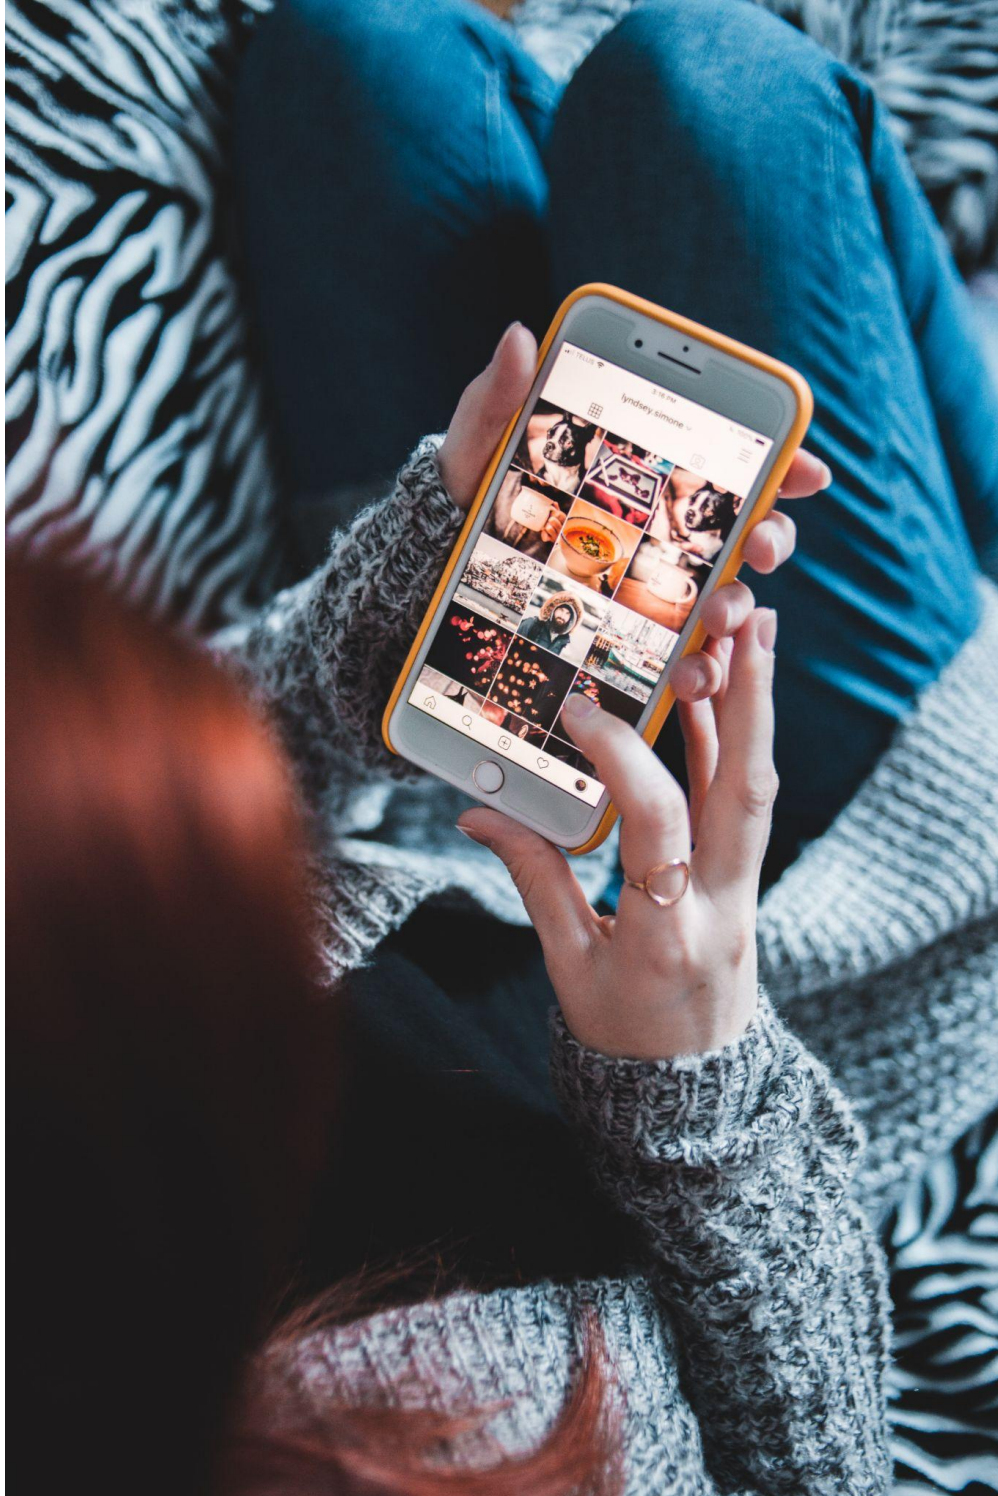

This person is conducting human factors engineering training with other employees.

This employee just got her dream job working for a company that finally believes in habitability!

This person is very content with the habitability of her workspace and is looking at things to add to her desk.

This employee is hard at work coming up with the best employee training that will educate the new employees in the most efficient way.

These employees are undergoing cyber security training to ensure that they are up to date with how cyber crimes can occur within a workplace.

This employee is having a great time outside on their break knowing that the environmental safety of their workplace is extremely safe!