

Major and Minor Exploration Assignment

CYSE100: Cyber Explorers and University Orientation

Written By: Ryan Stephens

Major: Financial Management with a Major in Real Estate (BSBA)

If I were to switch my major, I would most likely change it to Financial Management with a focus on Real Estate, primarily because of the importance of financial knowledge. Additionally, professionals in the real estate field, particularly those in a desirable area, tend to earn a substantial income, which is a major personal goal of mine.

Minor: Financial Management Minor

The Financial Management Minor will likely be the minor I choose because I believe that learning how to save, invest, and spend money correctly is vital to having a successful and financially secure life.

How Will These Courses Help Me in the Future?

As previously stated, these courses will help me learn how to manage my income effectively, and real estate would provide a backup career, or complement cybersecurity, if it doesn't work out as I hope it would.

Challenge:

The primary challenge I foresee in a financial career path is mathematics. I'm not the worst when it comes to math, but it is not my favorite subject, and having to take calculus might be difficult, especially without a calculator like ODU maintains in their math curriculum. Although MATH 200 Calculus for Business and Economics is a calculus class focused on economics, the Professor might let students use calculators.
