

Journal Entry 14

1. Sharing of Passwords, Addresses, or Photos of others
 - a. If people other people's personal information, then I don't think that they are doing it unknowingly. Just because of the simple fact that unless they are a public figure, that is seen as malicious anyways, if that makes any sense.
2. Collecting Information about Children
 - a. This is obviously dangerous as they are minors and collecting people's information unknowingly whether they are a minor or not is serious.
3. Unofficial Streaming Services
 - a. Although people use these all the time, they still cause harm to the talent and crew behind the films, shows, etc.
4. Copyrighted Images
 - a. This is one where I truly believe not enough people know that this is a crime. But search engines like Google and Bing make it so easy to use these images whether it be personally or commercially for people to even consider.
5. Bullying and Trolling
 - a. I put this one last because although it's a serious offense, it is so widespread and normalized online that you can't really charge someone for it now without it being a waste of money.
