

Five Most Serious Online Violations

Juan David Restrepo Gomez

School of Cybersecurity, Old Dominion University

CYSE201S (Module /Week 12)

Matthew Umphlet

28 Jul 2024

After Andriy Slynchuck description of the eleven things internet users do that may be illegal. I have come to the deep analysis to the 5 serious offenses.

1. Using Unofficial Streaming Services: This violation can lead legitimately streaming companies to lose financially because this is a copyright infringement. For example, if a new movie is coming only on Netflix and is recorded and shared online this would lead Netflix to have less customers.
2. Bullying and Trolling: With technology and all social media bullying has evolved and has raised in the past years. This has become online harassment where the victims can develop health issues and in the extreme cases death. Now, the perpetrators can have legal consequences.
3. Collecting Information About People Younger Than 13: This is extremely concerning because collecting data of minors is protected by children's online Privacy protection act (COPPA). This act is designed to protect the privacy of minors by restricting the type of information that can be collected and ensuring that parents are aware of and consent to the data collection.

4. Recording a VoIP Call Without Consent: This violates privacy laws, as it involves recording someone's conversation without their knowledge, potentially leading to legal actions and loss of trust.
5. Using Torrent Services: This one also violates copyright laws , in these case software, movies, music. Is broader and is more focus on the download rather than watching content in an illegal platform like streaming services.

These offenses are particularly serious because they infringe on intellectual property rights, privacy, and personal safety, leading to potentially severe legal repercussions and societal harm.

References

<https://www.ftc.gov/business-guidance/blog/2022/03/when-it-comes-health-data-comply-coppa-no-kidding>

<https://clario.co/blog/illegal-things-you-do-online/>