NICE Workforce Framework Journal Entry

Cybersecurity has many different employment areas that are like one another and many that are far apart. My career focus areas would be within the Protection and Defense category. The most interesting work roles that I would focus on are Digital Forensics and Infrastructure Support. Digital Forensics is interesting to me because you get to analyze and study evidence from digital devices and locating vulnerabilities on the network to bring down criminals. Infrastructure Support is a great role to ensure that Infrastructure systems are best protected using the best and most updated hardware and software. This role became interesting mainly due to the uprise in Infrastructure systems becoming compromised.

My least favorite career focus area would be in Cyberspace Effects. Mission Assessment includes investigations and developments of security but the least part for me is that it is more so for cyber events cases only. I would want a focus more wide range.
