The article shed light on how government and military are not quite prepared for the advancement of technology and how cybersecurity is being exploited now and will be in the future. Social change and human communication have become different with the introduction and use of social media platforms. This has opened a new way for hackers and others to enhance manipulation for gain. The article summarizes the different types of maneuvers being used in the marketplace to get information. Computers have taken the place of human physical interaction. People no longer must show in person to get things done. The use of Bots has made a lot of things possible on the network. They are used to create social media accounts and complete multiple tasks quickly. They can cause malicious intentions to create harm and a lot of people are unaware of the risks and the importance of cybersecurity awareness.
