WEEK 11 JOURNAL ENTRY

2

One thing that I will give the YouTuber credit for, is taking the time to be very upfront about the various things that the role of an IT person can have. She discusses that although the role can vary greatly from company to company and state to state, certain aspects of it remain constant. Things such as responding to intrusion attacks or researching and monitoring a network are all ways that fake news can be combated. The video even discusses job-related aspects that may impact the analyst outside of the job itself, such as lifestyles that may be an ideal match for the expected schedule, which is an aspect of social cybersecurity itself because it touches on which social behaviors are required of the employee.
