My thoughts on this video are puzzled, I say this because it like I just got in to this cybersecurity stuff and this whole time I have not known stuff like hacking into bears and the public networks. The question that I have are, how did he get his foot in the door for this. This is an important question because a lot of the time I feel like getting your foot in the door is kind of difficult. Another question that I have is did he get this information on this topic, did he find it online forums or what.
