About

My name is William Spilsbury, I also go by Will. I am currently a Junior at Old Dominion University majoring in Cybersecurity.

I hope to soon enter the field of Cybersecurity and start working with companies that I may soon have a lengthy career with. I am interested in design and development as well as implementation and operation within the framework of Cybersecurity.

I am very good with planning and problem solving, a skill I learned doing construction. There are often times where I need to create a game plan in order to complete my task. An example of this is one time where I had to path out copper condensation lines coming out of II ceiling units in an office area. They had to all connect to one of two different drains whilst avoiding wiring, ductwork, and other piping already in the ceiling.
