

Can you spot three fake websites and compare the three fake websites to three real websites, plus showcase what makes the fake websites fake?

The first fake website I see that is obviously fake is a mobile gaming site. This site is a carbon copy of the mdickie site. The website is obviously fake because the spelling is all over the place and there are a lot of slang words like instead of the it is "da" and other spelling and grammar mistakes like using the wrong "there." The site was implying possession of something so instead of using "their" they used "there". The next site is obviously fake because on the front page it is spammed with malware ads. I found another fake anime website and compared it to the real one and seen the differences. For example, the real anime website design is way clearer and looks professionally done while the other site designs look made quickly on google docs. Also, the fake website has no contact information, and the real site has all the contact information. The first thing I noticed between the sites were the domain names. I looked up a fake website and I could not tell it was fake because everything looked good. I was able to find it was fake by using different fake website checkers. I used 3 website checkers to get a decent sample size and all the results came back to the site being fake. If I had not done this, I would have thought the site was real, everything looked authentic from top to bottom. Googles safe browser search was the most Reible to me as I was using google.
